Did You Know?

Rear Hub caps fit by friction over nuts holding the axle's oil cap

In order to fit the correct hub cap, check to see how many studs and the size of the nuts. The two most popular rear hub caps are the 310 and 320.

8 studs, 5/8" nut - Use part 310

8 studs, 3/4" nut - Use part 320

TIP: If the rear hub cap is a little loose or too tight, check the nut corners and slightly adjust outward for a tighter fit or inward for a secure fit.

Did You Know?

Roadmaster's mud flap hangers have a safety plate that prevents the spring-loaded U-bolt from collapsing into the hollow bracket?

Spring loaded mud flap hangers have a heavy duty spring under tension to maintain the bracket. Some suppliers sell economy-style brackets, which require removing the plate for installation. This style can be dangerous and cause injury if the u-bolt and internal spring collapses. Roadmaster's hangers are ready to safely install out of the box and you don't have to remove any hardware that is dangerously under tension.

Did You Know?

Truck tires can lose up to 2% psi each month.

Tire Inflation and Fuel Economy - A properly inflated tire can extend its life by 8% or more. For a typical long-haul combination truck, annual fuel savings should reach 100 gallons. When not properly inflated, tires flex more under load producing heat and increasing rolling resistance, which actually wastes fuel. Truck tires inflated 10 psi below recommended air pressure levels can reduce truck fuel economy from 0.5 to 1%.
